THE JEANNETTE.

Lieut. Melville's Plan of Operations Sent to Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 23. Secretary Hunt this afternoon received the following:

YAKUTZ, Jan. 10, 1882.

Hon. Secretary of the Navy, Washington, D. C.

Sir—I have the honor to submit the following plan for the search for the missing people of both boats, also the schedule of provisions, list of outfits and other articles necessary for six months, and if compelled to remain at the Lena Delta for the river to freeze over before being able to return to Yakutz, the supplies to be duplicated by the Russian authorities at Yakutz. It may be well to state at this time that all the supplies used at Belun or the Lena Delta are carried on pack horses or deer sleds for a distance of 2000 versts, and travel from Belun to Yakutz is only practicable in winter time, therefore it may be possible that we may be obliged to remain at or near Belun until November, 1882. The search will be carried on by three parties, as follows: I propose to establish a depot at Belun for all supplies, centre of operations "at two crosses," near Mt. Jai, one party to go as far north as Lister Anek and work back to two crosses, one party to work south half way to Bulcour, one party to work from Bulcour north to two crosses. These three parties should be able to search the whole of the country between Sister Anek and Bulcour in twenty days after leaving the depot. This being completed the depot will be moved to Catt Contee, L. C., between Sister Anek and Quanna; one party to follow the southern and western branches of the Lena as far as the River Alanek; the second party to follow the northwestern branch of the Lena and work up toward Upper Belun; the third party to work from Upper Belun on the northwest coast, southwest to meet the second party. This will complete the search for Lieut. De Long and Chipp as far west as the Inner Alonek. This being completed, establish the depot at Provarnia, No. 5, two parties to start from Provarnia and one party to follow the north branch of the Lena; the other to follow the coast line east and west until they meet, both returning across the country to Provarnia. Move the depot to Provarnia at No. 18, one party to entirely circumscribe the southern portion of the country from No. 18, first southeast, then north, turning southwest, then turning east back to Provarnia. The two other parties to search the coast as far as Barkin, and west as far as the branch leading southwest to Usterda. Move the depot to Bucoff, and search all the coast line from Bucoff southeast to the bight of the bay. Two parties to go east from Bucoff to the coast line, and party to work north and east to the north cape, then back to Bucoff, the other party to go south and meet the first party, both returning to Bucoff. This can be accomplished before the snow floods set in. It will be necessary to wait the melting of the ice in the river before attempting the work along the coast in the boat toward the Lena River. From the position of the three boats before the separation, only fifty miles northeast of Barkin and the gale coming from the northeast, it seems impossible for the second cutter to be driven to the eastward of the Lena.

By the advice and consent of Gen. P. T. Chenikoff, I have hired Buhokoff for 100 roubles per month, and Cossack Sergeant Peter Kolenkin at 60 roubles per month, also to supply them with food and clothing during our absence. I have telegraphed to Mr. Stomikoff, owner of the steamer Lena, to detail Capt. Guenbeck of the Lena to accompany me to the Lena Delta to assist in the search. The three traveling parties will be arranged as follows: P. A. Engineer Melville and Capt. Guenbeck, with Yokut dog sled and driver. Second party, Wm. C. F. Hinderman and Mr. Bukoboff, with Yokut dog and driver. The third party to consist of James H. Bartlett, first-class fireman, and Cossack Sergeant Kolenkin with Yokut dog sled and driver. Reindeer flesh and fish can be procured during the summer at the Lena Delta. I will be at Belun by February 15, and the search will commence by March 1, or as soon as the spring storms will permit. Inclosed please find ration table and chart of Lena Delta with depots marked thereon, also copies of letters to Gen. Tchenikoff, by his urgent request, about the conduct of the people in his district. Copy of telegram to Mr. Sibiriakoff for services of Capt. Guenbeck, and copy of instructions to Bieshoff of Belun to continue the search until my return. The instructions were written by Verkinasek and translated by an exile. Sent back to Bieshoff, he having verbal instructions to commence the search at once, a reward being offered for the recovery of the people, books or papers. Gen. P. Tchenikoff has guaranteed to have all the supplies at Belun by Feb. 15. My party will leave as soon as possible and live on such food as the country affords.

I have the honor to be, etc.,
GEO. W. MELVILLE,
P. A. Engineer, U. S. N.

One of the inclosures is a ration table for six months, to be at Belun by February 15, 1883. The list includes bread, dried meat, salt meat, flour, butter, salt, tea, sugar, tobacco, spice, pickles, vinegar, candles, peas (dried) and barley grits; also inclosed is a copy of a telegram sent by Melville to Sibiriakoff, requesting that Capt. Guenbeck be detailed to assist in the search; also copies of letters to General Tchenikoff commending his attention.

The noble assistance rendered to the American party in their distress by Gregory M. Bragoff, the Russian Commandant at Belun, and praising in particular the two Russian exiles, Kocsmah Guymaseff and Tapticar Capaloff, and the three Yokut hunters, who rescued Hinderman and Noros.

As Mr. MacJohnson was driving from Calais to his home in Perry, a few days ago, his horse became frightened and jumped from the road into a ditch. The animal's leg was broken, and Mr. MacJohnson was injured. Damages will be claimed, it is said.

A protracted meeting has been in progress for a number of weeks in what is known as the Dodge school-house in East Burnham. Sixty or more have professed saving faith in Christ and it seems as though the work had just begun as the interest is increasing and the work is spreading in every direction. The village is stirring in the good work and meetings are held here every evening.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

Mr. Augustus L. Foss, of North Leeds, died suddenly in his chair, Tuesday morning. Deceased was very well known in this county, especially in political circles, having held several public positions. He leaves a large family.

The Lewiston Journal says: A considerable Western emigration has commenced this spring. Ten persons went from Lewiston, Monday, via the Grand Trunk; and a carload of Western-bound passengers from the more easterly part of the State, left Danville Junction, Tuesday. The majority will settle in Dakota and Manitoba.

The third number of the decennial volume of the Bates Student is out, and is rich in interesting college news and general literary matter. The Student says, editorially, that Rev. Dr. Bowen, the agent of the college, is surprised at the friendly reception with which his work has been met, and the contributions of our people, irrespective of all denominational or other relations. The Student calls for improvement in the heating apparatus at the college.

Aroostook.

Daniel Gerow, of Hodgdon, probably has the largest and best equipped sugar orchard in this county. He will tap three thousand trees this season and expects to make fourteen hundred pounds of maple sugar.

The Republican says: Thursday, a Mrs. Weltz living on the Washburn road, in Caribou, was thrown from a sled upon which she was riding. A log, which was on the sled, fell upon her, dislocating her hip and otherwise severely injuring her. Her recovery is considered doubtful.

Cumberland.

Topsham experienced a decided surprise last week, Rev Jotham Sewall, who had been for some time preaching at the Congregational church, was called to the pastorate. The Telegraph says the usual ecclesiastical council found Mr. Sewall's orthodoxy defective. The Telegraph adds: "The result was that the council declined to recommend his ordination as pastor of the church in question. As people had assembled, expecting the usual services on such occasions, Rev. Mr. Richards, of Bath, who was designated to preach the sermon, delivered a discourse in the afternoon. Rev. Mr. Sewall is a son of Rev. David B. Sewall, of York, a graduate of Bowdoin, class of 1836, a nephew of the two professors, Jotham B., and John S. Sewall, formerly connected with Bowdoin College. While in Topsham, his ministrations have been warmly received, and he has made many friends, not only there, but in Brunswick, and of course the refusal to ordain, it is fair to say, disappoints the people of Topsham, who would have gladly had Mr. Sewall for pastor."

Darius H. Ingraham has been elected by the Portland Land League a delegate to the national convention in Washington, April 12.

Rev. W. H. Fenn, of Portland, lectured before Bates Theological class, Monday.

There is a young woman shoemaker in Portland. She has a small shop of her own in which she hammers and stitches as deftly as any man at the trade.

The steward of the schooner John Brown lying at Custom House wharf, Portland, narrowly escaped death from suffocation from inhaling coal gas Wednesday night.

The Argus says the reception tendered the Tillson Light Infantry, of Rockland, and prominent military gentlemen by the Portland Cadets proved one of the most successful among the many brilliant occasions which have been witnessed in Portland.

The Telegraph says that Getchell's mill, in Brunswick, was burned March 17th, also the carding machine and a threshing machine stored in the mill; a mowing machine, and a hay rack in the building were saved. No insurance.

Hancock.

Hancock county has been the scene of two encounters with bears. One weighing 245 pounds was killed at the Back Meadows on Thursday last, by Mr. Calvin Graves, of Hancock. Also, last week, as Fred Williams and Maynard Linton were going through the woods in the neighborhood of Great Pond, they came across a large bear and three cubs. They had only an axe with them and though it was wielded to the best of William's ability he only succeeded in killing the cubs. It looks as if all the bears were not killed out yet. We hope these reports will not deter any timid New Yorkers from venturing "down East" into the Wilds of Maine this summer.

Kennebec.

No traces of the woman, Mrs. Bickford, who wandered from her home at Mr. March's, in Monmouth, night before last, have yet been discovered, though a very large force searched all day Wednesday. It is not supposed she can be living. She is some 82 or 83 years of age.

The Augusta Journal says the team of Daniel Berry, of West Gardiner, ran away in Augusta, Thursday, and coming in collision with another team in which was seated a 14-years-old boy of Captain Drew, of Farmingdale, threw him out and seriously if not dangerously injured him.

Oxford.

An Oxford bear—of somewhat different nature from those that lately gathered in Portland—has been making things lively in Dixfield, Mexico, and other parts of this county. Pursuit of him has been kept up for 10 days: All the old muskets, shotguns, fusees and even pistols, that were in the villages have been called out. Men, children and women talk of nothing but bear and ammunition. Business has been practically suspended—except the powder and shot trade. The bear is reported to be very large—a regular "old ranger" with a paw as large as a number 11 boot. The latest reports of Wednesday said that Bruin was still alive, and only likely to die of exhaustion.—Lewiston Journal.

Piscataquis.

There is the largest attendance at Foxcroft Academy this Spring of any term for several years. Mr. Sampson's first term there contained only about sixty-four pupils; there are now in attendance one hundred and thirty pupils.

Fred H. Carr and Susie Oakes Carr, of Sangerville, are the happy parents of two blooming children who are blessed with, as we believe, an unusually long line of living ancestry. On the father's side are grandfather and grandmother Carr, also great-grandfather and great-grandmother Carr. On the mother's side are grandfather and grandmother Oakes and great-grandfather and great-grandmother Oakes; also great-grandfather and great-grandmother Knowlton; making ten grand parents all residing in Sangerville.—Observer.

Waldo.

Two three masted schooners have recently loaded with ice at Islesboro. They were nearly of the same size, each taking about 750 tons.

An ox, belonging to John Clark, of Islesboro, while working in the yoke one day last week dropped dead without any apparent cause unless it was for the reason that he was weary and sick of life.

Samuel H. Walker, of Belfast, was stricken with paralysis of the right side, at Camden, on Monday forenoon. He was at work in Bean's ship yard and was as well as usual, although for some time his health has not been good. He was brought home on Tuesday. He has been speechless since the attack, but hopes of his recovery are entertained.—Journal.

Washington.

Nine vessels will be built at Millbridge this season, seven sail and two steamers. The two steamers are for Messrs. Wolff & Reessing. The largest vessel will be a three masted schooner of about 700 tons burden.

Job Stanley, of North Head, while fishing off Fish Head, on Friday, saw a number of whales playing around, but paid little attention to them until he found that one of them had become entangled in his rope, and was pulling his dory under. By a hasty use of his knife he severed the line and saved his dory and probably his life.

The sardine business looks rather discouraging at present, and the factories are not likely to start very soon. One factory at Lubec has received two lots of herring from Grand Manan—33 hhds. at one time and 3 hhds. at the other. Herring for sardines are scarce and high, and steady employment can not be expected.

The voting list for Machias as now posted up contains 483 names. Representatives of the Foss family number 26, and take the lead.

A large quantity of wood has been cut for market at North Lubec this winter. Mr. Stephen Saunders of that place has engaged to furnish 250 logs and piles for a wharf which is to be built for Mr. Best of Campobello.

DAKOTA'S REPUDIATED BONDS.

Senator Hale objected to the admission of Dakota as a State because she repudiated bonds given in aid of the building of the Southern Dakota Railroad. Among those who suffered by this repudiation were parties in Maine. The Tribune, in regard to this matter, says: "Mr. Hale's statement of facts makes out a prima facie case against admission. He states that in 1872 Yankton county issued bonds, under an authorizing act of the Legislature, to the amount of $200,000, in aid of the Southern Dakota Railroad, that the road was built, and the bonds repudiated, and that the Territorial Legislature at once passed an act virtually legalizing resignations of county officers upon whom a writ of mandamus was served to compel payment. Mr. Hale proposed to have the admission of Dakota deferred until this matter be cleared up. Mr. McMillan, in reply, is reported as saying that 'Eastern financiers, accustomed to charge usurious rates for their investments, were prone to charge localities of the West, with the repudiation whenever the prompt collection of their incomes was retarded.' The issue of fact must of course be met by Mr. Hale, and, any who may dispute his statement. But if his account is correct, Dakota ought to wait outside the Union until it has learned to deal honestly.

It is quite time for the Republican party to consider whether honest payment of debts should not be insisted upon as a condition of membership of the Union. We have in the Union already several repudiating States. The only question is as to the power of the Union in the matter.

One thing, at least, the Union has power to do beyond all dispute. It has power to refuse admission as a State to any community that does not come with absolutely clean hands financially. Admission to the family of States is a favor. That favor ought in future to be rigidly refused to any community, whether Northern or Southern, Republican or Democratic, that has upon it the taint of repudiation. If Dakota is open to this censure, let Dakota wait for a century, if need be, until its people are ready to pay their debts."

ANOTHER SLANDER EXPLODED.

After all the ding dong of insinuation that there was something in the "missing letters" from the State Department files that would be hurtful to Mr. Blaine, the utter insignificance of those documents produced by Shipherd, must cause intense disappointment among the scandal-mongers who were so ready to insinuate that the ex-Secretary was in some way responsible for their disappearance. On Thursday Shipherd produced the last of the missing letters, and all newspaper readers have now seen that all the five letters were addressed to the President and not to Mr. Blaine, and they are as harmless communications as were ever conceived by a South American imagination and addressed to the pigeonholes of a Government office. This charge, which disappears in thin air, is a fair specimen of the peculiarly zealous efforts that have been made by the Stalwart newspapers and their Democratic allies, ever since Mr. Blaine became a private citizen, to destroy popular confidence in him.

THE ASSAULT UPON GARFIELD.

THE CAUSE OF SCHUCKERS' SPITE.

A Cleveland, Ohio, special says a prominent gentleman of that city who was very intimate all his life with Gen. Garfield, tonight makes the following contribution to the present Rosecrans-Garfield controversy:

"In November, 1877, Garfield delivered his famous speech against the repeal of the Resumption act. On the 5th of March following Judge Kelley, of Pennsylvania, made a speech in reply. The next day Garfield replied to this speech in a way that did very much toward settling the whole matter in the minds of Congress and the people. The time had come for a plain talk and for definite terms, and Garfield indulged in them. He called things by their right names, and disposed of Judge Kelley and Mr. Schuckers's fallacies in such a way that they never saw daylight again. This, a man so thin skinned as Schuckers, of course, never forgot or forgave, and he has been watching his opportunity to strike back. He undoubtedly has been keeping this letter, or a copy of it, for a long time, watching for an opportunity to use it, and finally, when its author is silent in the coffin, he brings it forth. The references which Gen Garfield makes to Schuckers are as follows. They occur in his speech of March 6, 1878. He had been speaking of the panic in England in 1821. He said: 'But I notice that neither the gentleman nor his vouch,' Mr. Schuckers, who addressed to the gentleman not less than twenty pamphlet pages on the subject of my November speech, has been able to argue away the stubborn fact that, in 1821, and again in 1825, the House of Commons, by a vote, first of five to one and then of six to one, declared that the Resumption act of 1819 did not cause the distress which then prevailed. When they have proved that they know more on the subject than the House of Commons it will be in order to appeal to Alison and Doubleday and to assume for supposing that the Parliament of Great Britain is a 'fair index of British opinion'. A little further on Garfield in a sarcastic vein that was irresistable, again referred to Schuckers: 'In my November speech I referred to a chapter in Martineau's "History of England," in which the causes of distress were set forth as being those I alleged. Mr. Schuckers (spouse of Mrs Martineau by saying she was, of all human animals, the most forlorn—a woman atheist—whose narration was a mere retailer of Mr. Tooke's, whose follower she was.'

"There has been a good deal of meanness brought out in this controversy," says this gentleman, "and before it is done there may be those who will feel that it would have been as well to let the dead man rest in his coffin."

There is a great deal of talk in Columbus, Ohio, over a recent marriage. The bridegroom was William D. Pugh, son of a judge, nephew of a member of Congress, heir to a quarter of a million, and of very respectable social connections. The bride was Ella Boggs, a dancer in a low concert garden. Pugh knew that he would be ostracized, and so started for New Mexico with his wife, after closing his business affairs, intending never to return.

W. H. Vanderbilt has paid $400,000 for a lot of land on Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fourth street that was sold for $200,000 three years ago. Two more palaces will be erected by Vanderbilt, one of which he will present to his son-in-law, E. McK. Twombly, and the other to his son-in-law, Dr. Seward Webb.

The President has rented a Queen Anne style of house at Long Branch for the coming season. It is one of four erected by Mr. John Hoey.

His Opinion of the Spoliation of Peru.

SACRIFICE OF OUR COMMERCIAL RELATIONS IN SOUTH AMERICA.

The Washington Post, of March 24th, printed an interview with Mr. Blaine on the Chili-Peruvian question. Mr. Blaine, in the course of the interview, said that the general result was precisely what he had predicted when Mr. Trescott's instructions were revoked. "I said in January that Peru is to be despoiled and destroyed, and that the profits of the spoliation are to be divided between Chili and the English bondholders and speculators who furnished her the money and the guns and the ironclads that destroyed Peru."

"Is this made evident in any authentic way?" asked the reporter.

"Unquestionably," said Mr. Blaine. "It is so advertised in the Chilian newspapers by the treasury department of Chili. They have issued a decree asking for bids for 1,000,000 tons of guano to be extracted from the guano beds of Peru, now in possession of Chili. Every cargo must be paid for, so the advertisement runs, in good sterling money—English money, mark you—at 90 days' sight. One-half goes to Chili and one-half to the English bondholders, and Chili binds herself to deposit 50 per cent. of the proceeds of the guano in the Bank of England."

"But," asked the reporter, "did Mr. Trescott agree to this?"

"Mr. Trescott was forbidden," said Mr. Blaine, "to say one word about it, and not permitted, even, to interpose a protest. See, here is what my successor in the State Department said in his letter to Mr. Trescott revoking his previous instructions" [reading from the recently printed volume of Chili-Peruvian dispatches]:

"'The President wishes in no manner to dictate or make any authoritative utterance to either Peru or Chili as to the merits of the controversy existing between those republics, as to what indemnity should be asked or given, as to a change of boundaries, or as to the personnel of the government of Peru. The President recognizes Peru and Chili to be independent republics, to which he has no right or inclination to dictate.'

"Of course," continued Mr. Blaine, "when Mr. Trescott was thus made powerless, Chili and the English bondholders HAD IT ALL THEIR OWN WAY, with none to molest or make them afraid."

"Then it would seem as if Mr. Trescott's visit had turned out in the interest of the English speculators" suggested the reporter.

"Undeniably," said Mr. Blaine, "because Mr. Trescott, under Mr. Frelinghuysen's instructions, has proved there as the constant witness that the United States would not in any event intervene. If the indemnity demanded took the last dollar of Peru's property and the last acre of Peru's territory, Mr. Trescott was specially instructed not to say one word in protest or opposition."

"How did Mr. Trescott come to sign this recent protocol?" asked the reporter.

"I do not understand that he has signed a protocol. The dispatches are a little confused, but I think the meaning is that Chili submitted a protocol containing terms of settlement between herself and Peru, and Mr. Trescott was asked whether he would use his good offices to urge it upon Peru. As he had been instructed to make no authoritative utterance on the question, he telegraphed the State department to know if his good offices should be so used, and the department, I judge from the published telegrams, declined. But you will observe that the result to Chili and Peru is exactly the same, whether our good offices in aid of the protocol should be used or not. It is merely a question as to whether we would actively aid or simply agree not to hinder."

"Does not the protocol change at all the previous demands of Chili?"

"I think," said Mr. Blaine, "it enlarges those demands somewhat beyond the indemnities asked before Mr. Trescott arrived. Naturally enough, when Chili found that the United States was sure not to interfere, she took all she wanted. She added, I think, the district of Tacna to her previous demands, besides a large strip of territory north of Tarapaca. When these conditions were submitted to Mr. Trescott, he was gracefully told that his good offices would be accepted to urge them upon Peru, but, if Peru refused to accede to them, then his good offices must be considered at an end."

"That can hardly be considered courteous to the United States?" queried the reporter.

"Why should Chili be courteous to the United States?" replied Mr. Blaine. "Nations, like individuals, depend, for their position, upon their POWER AND WILL TO ASSERT.

When Uriah Heep thanked God he was 'umble,' Master Copperfield took him at his word. When our minister was instructed to make no authoritative utterance, but merely be seen and not heard, and to act the part of meekness and humility, Chili naturally concluded that she could use the power of this great government, as she chose, and thus sought to make Mr. Trescott aid her designs upon Peru."

"But I do not quite understand," said the reporter, "how Chili came to advertise 1,000,000 tons of Peruvian guano for sale before a treaty was concluded, or any arrangement for peace made."

"She did it on the old principle," said Mr. Blaine, "that 'he shall take who has the power, and he shall keep who can.' It is an absolute conquest. She feels so sure of her possession that she need not wait for a treaty to be concluded. She simply appropriates the property with the strong hand. When the United States refused to ask for justice between the two republics, and a strong English power was interested in the aggrandizement of Chili, Peru's fate was sealed. It is noticeable, moreover, that the million tons of guano is offered for sale in one block, and any bidder is required to put up $500,000 so that the decree of sale is merely a mode of getting this vast property in the hands of the agents of Chili and the English bondholders. It will be carried in English ships, making a larger freightage than the cotton of the United States annually taken beyond the sea."

"Mr. Blaine, do you think that the United States could in any event have prevented this result without a war?"

"With either case," replied Mr Blaine. "There never was such arrant nonsense talked as the possibility of a war with Chili. The difference in power of the two countries renders the idea of a war ridiculous. We are too big to make war on Chili, and Chili is too small to make war on us. The moral power of the United States judiciously exerted could have saved the autonomy of Peru. As it is, Chili has taken $1,500,000,000 worth of property from Peru merely by the strong arm, and the United States has stood by in the person of her special envoy instructed either to say nothing or to say that it was all right. We have acquired the hatred of Peruvians to the latest generation and at least the

CONTEMPT OF THE CHILIANS.

We have also secured the self-satisfied chuckle of the band of English speculators into whose hands the power of the United States has so effectively played. Great Britain, with all her prowess, could not have advanced the commercial interests of her own merchants in South America so powerfully, and destroyed the interests of American merchants there so completely as has been done by the instructions with which Mr. Trescott was bound and gagged. The first instalment to British interest is the freight money on 1,000,000 tons of guano and half the profits of its sale in Europe, which of itself is a larger sum than the war expenditures of Chili."

"But, if the United States had intervened, would not Great Britain also have interfered?"

"Well," said Mr. Blaine, "it would have been worth while to find out whether, if the United States intervened to save an American republic, Great Britain would have intervened to destroy it. In my own judgment, the foreign policy of Great Britain will never take that direction. It certainly will not so long as British statesmen see that the United States can do by omission more for British interests than Great Britain can do by commission. The whole idea, however, of British intervention is a myth. The moral power of the United States in South America would simply have been irresistible. For American interests it was the opportunity of a century, and it was blindly sacrificed. The commercial interests of this country in South America will not in fifty years recover what has been lost and what was in its power to acquire. Our interests are not only totally destroyed in Chili and Peru, but our prestige is impaired in all South America; indeed, in all Spanish America, both continental and insular. The present generation will not witness the recovery of that which has been lost within the last ninety days."

"When you speak of commercial interests, Mr Blaine, do you mean the shipping interests?"

"I mean that," said Mr. Blaine, "but not that alone. I mean the entire interchange of commodities, the supplying of manufactured articles and raw material, the concentration in our commercial cities of a share of that which will now go wholly to London and Liverpool. The trade of the west coast of South America from this time forward will be as much in the hands of Great Britain as the trade of British India. But this opens a large subject, and I have neither time nor inclination to pursue it to-day."

A QUEER YARN

A man who claims to be a Mormon elder, in a letter to the Pittsburg Commercial Gazette over the assumed name of Joseph Smith, gives a detailed account of the scheme for stimulating the faith of Mormons and overwhelming the Gentiles by the resurrection of Brigham Young. He says that the plot was laid about a year before the announcement of the Prophet's death, and that the originator of it was Brigham himself. The writer was one of twelve persons admitted to the conspiracy and his conscience will not keep the secret any longer. Having spent several years in comfortable seclusion, while a waxed effigy reposed in his coffin, the Prophet is about to emerge and electrify the faithful. After this frank exposure the writer's only chance of safety is in concealing his real name, and, as it is, he expects to fall sooner or later "by the death shot or the moral stab of the Danites." This late would indeed be calamitous, for he has nine loving wives and any number of children in Salt Lake City. Resurrection might prove to be the strongest card in the Mormon pack at this stage of the game, and, absurd as these stories seem, a good many persons are disposed to see some truth in them.

Another Horrible Murder.

A Woman Killed by Her Husband.

BOSTON, March 25. A murder occurred in the town of Dedham to-night which in atrocity exceeds any crime of a like nature committed in this vicinity for years. John Sullivan, aged thirty-five, who is an operative in one of the mills there, and who has been considered a steady man, quarrelled to-night with his wife, Bridget, aged fifty, in their home. He had been drinking and in a dispute became enraged and seizing a razor savagely attacked her, cutting a deep gash in her throat and inflicting other wounds. The woman, despite the injuries received, rushed wildly from the house into the street, followed by her husband, flourishing the razor and inflicting at every step ghastly cuts with the weapon about her head and shoulders. She got away from him for a short distance and ran to the house of a neighbor, but while endeavoring to obtain an entrance was overtaken and seized by the hair by her husband, who renewed the attack. The woman then started and ran again, he following, still clutching her hair and slashing at her with the razor. The was then renewed till the woman had reached her own doorway, where she fell dead. Sullivan was shortly afterward arrested by the police and lodged in jail. He seemed quiet enough after being incarcerated, but was reticent when spoken to of the crime. The affair creates great excitement in town.

Sullivan Confesses

he does intended to kill his son David before killing himself, and thus wipe out the whole family.

Work of the Flames.

Reports from Various Sections.

At New York.

NEW YORK, March 25. Matson's rubber goods factory in College place was damaged $300,000 by fire this morning.

At Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25. A fire this afternoon in the warehouse of Charles N. Rickell, dealer in corks and brewers supplies, North Third street, occasioned a loss of $50,000.

At Houlton.

HOULTON, Me., March 25. Bailey's Hotel, near the railway station, was burned this morning. Loss $2,000; insured for $1,800.

At Spencer.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 25. The house of John Fay, at Spencer, was totally destroyed by fire this morning. House and furniture insured for $150.

At Richmond. Loss $600,000.

RICHMOND, March 25. One of the most destructive conflagrations that ever visited this city, second only to that which carried off the business portion of it at the evacuation by the Confederate army, April 1865, occurred to-day, resulting in a great destruction of property, the loss of life like all several minor casualties. A number of poor people are deprived of homes. The fire started near the southern end of Longbridge. The bridge was soon wrapped in flames and in less than half an hour the whole structure fell, a mass of ruins. When the flames reached the Richmond end of the bridge they immediately seized on the large four story brick tobacco factory of I. M. Rutherford & Co., which also quickly fell a victim to the devouring element which with frightful rapidity. Two hundred tenements occupied by poor people, about 3 miles of trestle work connecting the Trafford Iron Works with the Richmond & Petersburg railroad, ten freight cars, belonging to the Tredar Company, Smith's grocery store and a quantity of coal and lumber belonging to Southern Manchester and of the Dodge and Virginia Mining and Manufacturing Company's Cot on Works were destroyed. Loss from twelve to $500,000 $600 000. About half covered by insurance. Following are losers: J. C. Williams & Co., $100 000; E. A. Patterson & Co., $160,000; I. M. Rutherford & Co., $ 5,000; Richmond & Petersburg R. R. Co on bridge, $150 000; C. R. & F. D. Bark-dale $20,000; Vulcan Iron Works $25,000; Tredgar & Co., $10,000; Virginia Mining and Manufacturing Co., $30,000. Several larger buildings occupied as a tobacco factory and stemmeries owned by Jas Thomas, jr., who has no insurance, were also burned. His loss is $50,000 or $60 000 The efforts of the firemen to check the flames were nearly futile, fighting as they had to against a fierce wind which drew out smoke in clouds fifteen. At 1 45 p. M. Mayor Carrington telegraphed to Washington for assistance. The Washington department responded with several engines on a special train, but were notified that their services were not needed. The heavy wind carried large pieces of burning cinders which in some cases fell to distant houses.

Fatalities.

Charles Betts, a youth of fifteen, was killed by a falling wall, and two men whose names are unknown, are reported buried in the ruins of Patterson's factory.

At Vermont.

ST JOHNSBURY, March 26. The Free Baptist church was burned this morning. Fire caught from the furnace and the upper portion of the house was entirely consumed. The vestry in the basement was probably not much damaged except by water. The house was finished five years ago and cost $15,000. Insurance $[illegible]

TRAIN TELESCOPED.

One Man Killed.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 26. Early this morning the eastern bound passenger train on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Ry was telescoped by a freight train eighty miles east of Knoxville. The passenger train had just passed a freight train at Home station and was suddenly stopped by the bursting of one of the hose of the air brakes.

The freight train was only three minutes behind time and coming down a steep grade; its speed was checked, but it was impossible to stop the train before the engine had run into the car of the passenger train. The rear coach, which was occupied by President W. E. Cole's palace car, which recently cost $17,000, was totally wrecked, the steam pipe of the freight engine broken and the porter of Cole's car scalded to death. No one else was in the car. The conductor of the sleeper was severely scalded.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

The Late Poet Longfellow.

BOSTON, March 26. Public memorial services in Appleton Chapel took place at 4 30 p. M. The chapel, which will hold nearly a thousand, was packed and in the audience were many very prominent people. The exercises opened by singing "O, Gift Thy Burden," after which Rev Francis G Peabody offered prayer and read selections of Scripture. Rev. Prof C. C. Everett then paid a touching tribute to the memory of the dead.

BUFFALO, March 26. At the morning services in the principal churches to-day eulogies were delivered on Longfellow and in several of them the regular services were dispensed with and works of the poet read to the congregation. A general feeling of sadness prevails throughout the city over the poet's decease.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

A Will Case.

HAVERHILL, March 25. The jury in the celebrated Searles' will case disagreed. They were out twenty hours and stood six to six. The case was an appeal from the Probate Court where the will of Elnathan Searles, of Lebanon, giving $5,000 to the Methodist Missionary Society, was disallowed on grounds of undue influence.

FROM WASHINGTON.

General News.

The Star Route Cases.

WASHINGTON, March 25. The Criminal Court room was densely crowded this morning in anticipation of the possible hearing of the Star Route cases. When the Court opened at 11 o'clock the scene was highly suggestive of the Guiteau trial with the exception of the absence of the usual proportion of ladies. At the tables reserved for counsel for the defence were Colonel R. J. Ingersoll, Judge Carpenter, Jeff. Chandler, of St. Louis, Judge Brown, Col. Totten and Messrs. Wilson, Turner and Smith. District Attorney Corkhill and Col. Bliss appeared for the government.

Col. Ingersoll, on behalf of Stephen W. Dorsey, notified the Court that he desired to file a motion to set aside the indictment and quash it, and was prepared to submit authorities in support of it.

Judge Wylie directed him to read his motion, whereupon Col. Ingersoll read the motion, which was based upon the following grounds That the Grand Jury had no legal authority to find said indictment; that the District Attorney had no authority to draw said indictment and exhibit it to the Grand Jury; because Geo. B. Corkhill, District Attorney, did exhibit the bill of indictment without an order of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia, or any justice thereof, and that the Grand Jury did not find the indictment of their own knowledge, neither were Dorsey et al. bound over to answer the action of the Grand Jury.

Hon. Jere Wilson, as counsel for Gen. Brady, then filed a motion to quash the indictment as to his client, and read a paper, which was very long, setting forth numerous reasons, needing want of jurisdiction, insufficiency of the averment of facts to set forth a crime against the United States, because the crime, as set forth, is not such a one as to be penal under the laws of the United States, because at the time of the commission of the acts charged the defendant was an officer of the United States Government, and his acts not subject of investigation by this Court.

Judge Wilson stated that he was prepared to file a special plea in the case of Mr Turner and desired to know if the court would dispose of it at this time.

Col. Bliss replied that if pleas were to be made the parties must be formally arraigned and the indictment read.

The District Attorney intimated that the reading of the indictment would require five hours and that it must be better to proceed with the motions before entertaining the pleas.

Counsel for the defendant was willing to waive the arraignment but counsel for the government refused to have the arraignment waived.

Judge Wylie stated that he did not deem it necessary, but still it was a matter for the prosecuting officers to decide whether they would insist upon the arraignment or not.

After a protracted discussion on the part of counsel, Judge Wylie ruled that arguments would first be heard upon the motion to quash.

Judge Wilson then read a motion on behalf of L. G. Hine to quash the indictment for substantially the same grounds as set forth in the preceding motions.

Another protracted discussion then followed upon the suggestion of Col. Totten that counsel for the defence had not expected to be called upon to argue their motions to day, and were therefore not prepared with their authorities.

Judge Wylie was not disposed to submit to further delay and remarked: "There are enough of you: one can talk while the others look up the authorities."

At this point matters were still further complicated by Judge Browne's suggestion that he appeared for parties also indicted for conspiracy, who were directed to appear to-day, who were in Court ready to be arraigned on trial, and he wished to know the pleasure of the Court in respect to them.

Another discussion, involving this new feature, resulted in an agreement to postpone the further hearing as to Dorsey and Brady until Friday next.

Col. Ingersoll gave notice that he should file in connection with the motion to quash also a demurrer.

Col. Bliss then asked for the arraignment of the parties indicted in the straw bond cases.

Gen. Brady left the court room with his counsel, and further interest in the proceedings being at an end the crowd quickly retired.

Attorney General Brewster

has decided not to fill the vacancy in the Star Route counsel caused by the retirement of W. A. Cook, but will select additional counsel to take charge of the prosecution in conjunction with George Bliss to supply the place held by himself (the Attorney General) before his elevation to his present position. The Attorney General says he will continue in control of the cases, and has not yet selected an assistant for Col Bliss.

Naval Changes.

The Secretary of the Navy has approved the request of Rear Admiral John H Febiger to be relieved from the command of the South Atlantic Station to which he had just been ordered, and to be placed on the retired list July 1st next. Commodore Pierce Crosby, who has been ordered to examination for promotion, will be ordered to the command of the South Atlantic Station as soon as he is qualified as a Rear Admiral.

Commander Chas. E. Clark has been ordered to the command of the training ship New Hampshire Lt. Isaac I Yates to the receiving ship Franklin, April 1st. Commander Nicholl Ludlow has been detached from special duty at the West Point foundry, and ordered to duty at the South Boston Iron Works on the 31st inst.

Mason's Case.

Judge Advocate General Swaim, U. S. A., has nearly completed his report on the case of Mason and will submit it to the Secretary of War for his action Monday. It is generally understood that Swaim recommends a mitigation of the sentence of the Court Martial.

Funeral.

WASHINGTON, March 26. The funeral ceremonies of Rear Admiral Gustavus H. Scott took place at three o'clock this afternoon from his late residence on G street. The funeral was largely attended by the friends of the family and officers of the army and navy in this city.

Shipherd Still Sick.

Mr. Shipherd is still confined to his room. The physicians say it will be several days before he can possibly appear again before the Judiciary Committee.

Star Routes Let.

Star Routes west of the Mississippi river were recently advertised and let for another term of four years, beginning July 1st, 1882. Examination of results of the letting proves, however, that the cost of the western service will not be increased after July 1st, 1882, but in comparison with the cost of the same service, July 1st, 1881, two months before the change of administration, will be reduced one-half.

The cost of 21 prominent routes was $947,633, January 31st, 1881. This annual cost was reduced under Postmaster General James to $121,361, and the same routes with substantially the same changes as to length, which were made under James, but with faster schedules, have been let for the next four years for $87,194 The result of the letting is regarded by Second Assistant Postmaster General Elmer as sustaining, in a most emphatic manner, the policy of the Department in relation to the Star Service during the last twelve months.

NEW YORK.

Collision on Sixth Avenue Elevated Railroad.

NEW YORK, March 25. Two trains on the Sixth Avenue Elevated Railroad, this morning, came in collision near Courtlandt street. The coaches were detailed and an engine smashed. Fortunately they did not fall through to the street, and some 50 persons had a narrow escape. The accident causes considerable excitement.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher on the Chinese Bill.

NEW YORK, March 26. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, preaching on emigration to-day, called the present Congress "Fool Congress" for cutting off the emigration of Chinese, whom he said were necessary to do the "vulgar" work. Such he said formed an admirable element of the nation's power but made mischief in the city government.

Martinez Dislikes Blaine's Plain Talk.

The Chilian Minister Sampitch Because Mr. Blaine has objected to the Destruction of Peru.

NEW YORK, March 26. The Herald prints an interview with Minister Martinez of Chili, in which the latter denies the statements of Mr. Blaine, in relation to the Chilian government, and says that in his judgment all that Mr. Blaine has said is intended purely to serve his own political interests. Mr. Martinez says: "Mr. Blaine asserts that England has furnished Chili with arms, ships, money, and even uniforms, to carry on the war against Peru. All this is untrue. Chili has borne all the war expenses with internal loans, and the paper money engraved by the New York Bank Note Company. Chili has bought its small arms in Belgium and France and its guns in Germany. It has clothed its army with uniforms made of cloths manufactured in Chili. As regards the iron clads Cochrane and Blanco, it is true that they were built in England, but eight years before the war, just as Peru had all its fleet built in England, with the exception of its monitors Atahualpa and Manco Capel, while the Union was built in France. I do not care to continue to enumerate in detail the inaccuracies expressed by Mr. Blaine, for I would have to contradict it word or word." Mr. Martinez says the claim against Peru

Is Moderate.

He considers it difficult to form an estimate of the value of the territory of Tarapaca. "I consider its value extremely variable and it may become very small, but I do not care to make capricious statements nor do I acknowledge the right of anybody to mix himself in affairs that do not concern him." He also considers the guano deposits as small in quantity and poor in quality. He considers that Mr. Trescott's action was noble, dignified and disinterested, and does not understand why Mr. Blaine should call it humiliating. Mr. Martinez concludes as follows: "All that Mr. Blaine says in regard to the predominance of England in South America, is to the effect that the only Peruvian creditors who will be paid are the English, notwithstanding that the bondholders are to be found in all parts of the world, as regards the decline of American influence in South America and the other insolences of Mr. Blaine's imagination, for the amusement of children. It is not for me to discuss these inventions, but for the press of the United States. I do not care to do it, because it would be an endless task. I will state that the whole press of Spanish America has risen en masse before the danger of the application in that part of the world of a policy which Mr. Blaine regards as wise and wonderful."

These are Fables

The Peruvian Company's Prospectus.

A Washington special says it is stated on the best authority that a letter of Mr. Shipherd's addressed to General Garfield, and containing the Peruvian Company's prospectus and other documents, was never seen by him. It came into the White House with other mail and was opened by the President's Secretary, and at once sent to the State Department as a matter of routine, without even the knowledge on Gen. Garfield's part that such a communication had been received

THE FLOODS.

Heavy Losses.

NEW ORLEANS, March 26. The water at Baton Rouge has risen two inches in the past twenty-four hours. A heavy rain and thunder storm prevailed there this morning. Bordache levee on Bayon Grosse Tete has given away in many places, and the whole Grosse Tete sugar district will inevitably be submerged. The people hope to save their horses and mules, but cattle, sheep and hogs must all be lost. These are the most disastrous crevasses so far occurred in the sugar-producing section of Louisiana and will entail a loss of many hundred thousand dollars.

DEATH OF LONGFELLOW.

Tributes from the English Press.

LONDON, March 25. The Globe this evening says it is not yielding to the supposed prevailing tendency to indiscriminately extort Americans to say that the death of Longfellow was a national loss to England. General and true appreciation were recorded hire here, even at a time when America was anything but popular.

The Times says the purity of Longfellow's thoughts, his affinity with all that is noblest in human nature, his unfailing command of refined, harmonious language will continue to draw readers, notwithstanding the judgment of critics that he is not a poet of the very first rank. It will seem to many that his death marks the close of a distinct era of American literature. One cannot readily point to worthy successors of the brilliant group to which he belonged.

FIRE IN BREWER. About four o'clock on the afternoon of Friday, fire was discovered in Brewer in the dwelling house owned by D. V. Nickerson and brother and occupied by D. V. Nickerson and Captain Young. The fire caught in the lower part of the house and followed up the chimney. The Brewer fire department came out promptly and did effective work. Holes were cut through the roof and a large amount of water was poured into the building. More damage was probably done by water than fire. The loss will probably amount to five hundred dollars. The property was insured.

MAINE CENTRAL. The Augusta Journal says: "The Maine Central are running their shops in the towns along the line to their utmost capacity, and are having the rolling stock of the corporation put in first class order. New cars are being built; old ones are being repaired and repainted; new locomotives are being purchased, and "improvement" seems to be the watchword of the road. At the shops here several cars are being thoroughly renovated. A palace car will be ready for service in a few days which has been almost built over, so extensive have the repairs been."

A LARGE CLAIM. The Argus says that Wm. F. Cody, known everywhere as "Buffalo Bill," is one of seven children who expect to come into possession of $1,600,000 A grandfather of William, named Phillip Cody, died many years ago, owning about fifty acres of land in the heart of Cleveland. He will ed the property to a branch of the family residing there. Since then Cody's mother and others have been contesting the will, and a judgment has been rendered obliging the present holder to make an account or else compromise with the claimants. The ground of the contest was that Philip was of unsound mind when he made his will.

PENOBSCOT AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY. At an adjourned meeting of this society, held at the Common Council room, in this city, Saturday forenoon, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: J. Ferguson and Nathan Johnson, Trustees. The Secretary and Treasurer's report was read showing the society to be in a very flourishing and satisfactory condition, and it was voted to have 400 copies of the report printed in pamphlet form for distribution.

FIRE AT EAST BRADFORD. Last Friday evening, at about eight o'clock, a store and stable at East Bradford, owned and occupied by Mr. George Elden, was destroyed by fire. The fire caught in the roof and when discovered was under considerable headway, and as there was a strong wind blowing at the time it could not be controlled. The upper part was fitted up and used by Mr. Elden as a dwelling house. All of his household goods, together with nearly all of the clothing of himself and wife, were burned. The contents of the store were saved, although in a damaged condition. This is a hard blow to Mr. Elden who is an enterprising young man and had been in trade only about two years.

SINGULAR COINCIDENCE. A Portland paper alluding to the death of Mr. Samuel P. Dinsmore, of the New York Stockholder, and formerly a journalist in Bangor, says: "Mr. Dinsmore was a classmate of General Anderson at Bowdoin College, class of 1844. It is a remarkable coincidence that Wednesday General Anderson was speaking of a letter which he recently received from Mr. Dinsmore, in which the latter alluding to the deaths of classmates remarked that out of the five original Sams none was yet "stelligeri" in the triennial catalogue—that is, had the star denoting death set against his name. A few hours later General Anderson received the despatch. Mr. Dinsmore was about 60 years of age and leaves a family."

SOCIABLE AT EAST BANGOR. The ladies of East Bangor held a sociable at the house of Mr. J. M. Rich recently, at which a good company gathered. J. F. Jordan presided over a confectionery stand. A post office, in charge of the young ladies, sent out many missions to the favored ones. Thanks are due to Mr. J. J. Randall for the excellent stew prepared for the occasion. Other refreshments, such as hot coffee, beans, cake, etc., were furnished. Thanks are due to friends in the city for donations sent in, also to Mr. and Mrs. Rich for opening their house and for their untiring efforts to make the occasion pleasant to their guests. The proceeds of the evening's entertainment amounted to about $30, which will be expended in repairing the East Bangor church.

REFORMERS' MEETING. The regular Sunday temperance meeting held yesterday by the Reform Club called out a large audience, many of our leading and influential citizens among the number. President Edwin Kenney occupied the chair, and in his opening remarks gave voice to the whole army of reform that no sufficient discouragement has as yet obstructed the cause of the club to make any earnest worker in the least disheartened. Mrs. Hunt, Secretary of Crusade, read Luke X. and Chaplain Henry offered prayer. The principal addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Jewell of the Universalist and Dea. J. C. White of the Columbia street church. Both of the efforts were convincing, and will do much to strengthen the weak and the wavering. Mrs. Abigail Palmer, Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Prentiss all spoke to good acceptance, as also did Messrs. Mason and Gerry of the club. Benediction was offered by Dr. J. K. Lincoln.

Smith & Son at their Kenduskeag bridge establishment are closing out their entire stock of goods. It will be remembered that they were recently visited by fire, and as their goods were more or less damaged by smoke, fire and water, they have decided to close out everything at remarkable figures. Writing paper, blank books, envelopes, Japanese goods, stationery and fancy goods of all kinds can be obtained there.

NEW PENSION OFFICE. The new pension office in this city is completed and almost ready for business. Blanks will be received and the office opened in good shape the first of April. There are four rooms—the first the private office of Gen. Connor, the second the general payment room, the third the mailing department, and the fourth room for widowed pensioners. There are two entrances from Water street. The following clerks will be employed: Major J. D. Myrick, Col. Chas. B. Whittemore, Annie P. Ladd and Addie Lander.—Augusta Journal.

SMALL-POX SCARE AT VANCEBORO SUBSIDING. The latest advices from Vanceboro are that the excitement over the small-pox is subsiding. At St. Croix, on the English side, there are six cases and there have been three deaths. The first death occurred some weeks ago and was that of the Dane who brought the disease to St. Croix and the last two occurred last week and were boys aged severally eight and sixteen years. A physician has been furnished by the Canadian Government, and the patients are receiving the best possible treatment. There have been no cases in Vanceboro, and the people of the town have very nearly all been vaccinated. The planks have been taken up from the foot bridge across the river and a guard has been placed at the railroad bridge, and foot passengers are not allowed to cross there. In this way communication between St. Croix and Vanceboro is practically stopped. The English and American authorities are acting together, and it is believed their efforts will result in preventing the spreading of the disease. The report about the suspension of Shaw Bros. tannery is incorrect, and it is running as usual. Hersey's clothespin factory closed because several of the workmen lived in St. Croix and had been exposed.

AMUSEMENTS.

Skiff's Minstrels To-night.

Skiff's California Minstrels will appear in Norombega Hall this evening in a programme of music and fun. An enjoyable entertainment may be looked for. About noon the brass band connected with the troupe will make a street parade. Seats are on sale at Bugbee's.

Notes.

The entertainment to-night is the 190th under the management of the Buskin Club and is the last that will be given under their auspices, as, with the opening of the Opera House the Club will cease to exist.

"Rosedale," for the dedication of the Opera House, is in a forward state of preparation. Next week rehearsals will be held nightly on the stage of the Opera House. The Jameson Guards will appear as a detachment of English soldiers during the action of the piece.

CONCERT IN BUCKSPORT.

An exceedingly interesting concert was given in Emery Hall, Bucksport, on Friday evening by the following well known talent: Mrs. Dora Wiley Golden, soprano, Mrs. E. T. Wasgett, contralto, Mr. E. E. Holden, tenor, Mr. R. B. Stover, basso, and Mrs. A. F. Page, accompanist. The audience was a large one and the various selections were received with great enthusiasm.

The opening piece was a quartette "There's one that I love dearly" by Mrs. Golden, Mrs. Wasgatt and Messrs. Holden and Stover. Mrs. Page followed with a piano solo. Mrs. Golden then sang "Che Gioja" and encored rendered "Nearest and dearest." The lady was in the best of voice and her singing was very superb. Mr. Holden sang "The German Minstrels" and encored gave "Tapping at the Garden Gate." A song "Likeness of the Best of Mothers" was sung by Mrs. Wasgatt with a violincello obligato by Dr. Wasgatt. Encored the lady sang "Somebody."

Part second opened with a duet "On Mossy Banks" by Mrs. Golden and Mr. Holden. Mrs. Wasgatt sang "A Bird in Hand." Mr. Holden gave "The Sailor's Grave. A duet "Io Vivo e Tamo" was sung by Mrs. Wasgatt and Mr. Holden. By special request Mrs. Golden sang "Annie Lawrie" and encored she gave "Better Bide A'wee." The concert closed with a quartette "Song of the Triton" by Mrs. Golden, Mrs. Wasgatt, Mr. Holden and Mr. Stover.

The programme throughout was one of great interest and the singers acquitted themselves highly creditably. Mrs. Golden sang her very best and all were charmed and enthusiastic. The Bangor singers met with very cordial receptions and were bounteously applauded.

FIRE AT MONSON.

Destruction of the Chapin House.

A serious fire occurred at Monson on Friday afternoon which resulted in the total destruction of the Chapin House, the only hotel in the village.

The fire took place about two o'clock. For some little time a chimney of the hotel had been burning out, but no danger was imagined till suddenly the roof of the ell and a part of the roof of the main house were discovered to be on fire. The cries of "Fire!" quickly brought assistance. The furniture was mostly saved, but it was considerably damaged by fire.

By desperate efforts the fire was confined to the house, and the stable and outbuildings were saved. The Chapin House was a three story building and had an ell. A. D. Sherman was the occupant of the hotel. The house had recently been purchased by W. Scott Knight, who intended soon to occupy it. The total loss is about $3,000 and the insurance is $1,500. The furniture was owned by Chapin and Sherman and was not insured.

A strong, northwest wind was blowing at the time and had it not been for the fire engine which was used by the brave and resolute citizens of Monson with great success at least $5,000 worth of other property in the vicinity would have been consumed. The village engine, which was purchased a few years since at a low figure, and which has since been the cause of some local controversy, has now paid for itself many times over. Great credit is due to the laborers in the slate quarries, who, with all others present, rendered very efficient aid.

The loss is greatly deplored throughout that section as Monson is now without any hotel accommodations. It is exceedingly fortunate that the conflagration was not more extensive than it really was.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

A SURE CURE FOUND AT LAST! NO ONE NEED SUFFER!

A sure Cure for Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. William, (an Indian remedy) called Dr. William's Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 or 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electuaries do more harm than good. William's Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and for nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry of Cleveland, says about Dr. William's Indian Pile Ointment: I have used scores of Pile Cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. William's Indian Ointment.

GRAFTING

As the grafting season is approaching, I would like to direct the attention of orchardists to some modes of grafting which I consider vastly superior to the old fashioned cleft-graft

The objections to the cleft graft are that it requires the cutting off of too large limbs or trunks scarificing too much in the growth of the tree, and giving it a great shock that the scions are very apt to be broken off by the wind or other forces, that the wound is a long time in healing, and unless carefully kept covered with wax stands for some years gaping open to receive rains and to decay These are weighty objections

The simplest mode of grafting that I know of is the splice graft The stock and scion are both scarfed off on one side and the cut parts fitted together and bound tightly with waxed cloth The taper of scion should be pretty long A little tongue is commonly made on the scion, to fit another on the stock, which secures the parts better while winding, but if the taper is long and the stock and scion about the same size there will be little trouble in fitting them This operation is rapidly performed by a practical hand, and is then very successful Mr D N Davidson, of Buckeport practices it Last May, I sent him some pear scions cut from nursery trees, I had just received from New York, the buds of which were so far pushed out that I feared he would fail entirely He set over 100 of them in his garden, and in mid summer we looked the lot over, and could not find one that had failed to take. If the stock is not much larger than the scion, the junction heals over completely the first season

Another method much used in the Penobscot valley, is the one sided saddle graft Mr Babcock, of Orono, and most of the grafters about Bangor follow this method It consists in scarfing off the stock on one side, splitting the scion on one side with one long cinger than the other, and making it straddle the stock There are some other details about it and though an excellent method as far as results go, it takes considerable time, and is a difficult method to explain in words, and not as easy as might be to teach a green hand Last spring I had to put some grafting into the hands of men and boys who had never seen any but cleft grafting. After trying them awhile on the one-sided saddle graft I found the work was not satisfactory and decided to try another mode which I remembered to have heard of, namely, the

SYMMETRICAL SADDLE GRAFT.

This method is very simple, and in half an hour I taught it to myself (having never done it nor seen it before), and to my two men, with such success that almost every scion took handsomely. The way to proceed is this Sharpen the stock to a thin wedge by scarfing off equally on two sides split the scion exactly in the middle, far enough to straddle the stock and come down on each side as far as the stock is scarfed Bind tight with waxed cloth. It is better to have the barks match on one side but if the legs of the scion come down to the bottom of the scarf and cross the bark of the stock there, that will be enough This method may be used on stocks no larger than the scion, or, if necessary, where the stock is an inch through, but will not, of course in the latter case, heal so quickly On half inch stocks, the wound often heals over completely before summer is gone and it never presents a gaping wound like that of the cleft-graft It is very strong,—little danger of the scions being displaced by handling or brushing against them

Waxed cloth is easily made by melting grafting wax and spreading it with a brush on one side of old, weak cotton cloth of any sort, calico or sheeting, and tearing it into narrow strips as wanted for use. It is more economical than clear wax and infinitely better If you practice these modes you are not obliged to cut a six-foot tree down to the ground to get a stock large enough to graft, but you can put your scion on almost at the very top of the tree, if you choose,—or just where you wish to form your top, and there is so little check to the growth of the tree, that you gain actually two or three years over the cleft-graft.

CHAS. G. ATKINS.

It is discovered that perfumes exert a healthy influence on the atmosphere, converting its oxygen into ozone. Cherry, laurel, clover, lavender, mint, juniper, fennel and bergamont develop the largest quantity of ozone. Flowers without perfume do not develop it, but the flowers of narcissus, mignonette, heliotrope and lily of the valley develop it in close vessels. Odorous flowers, cultivated in marshy places, would be valuable in purifying the air.

AGRICULTURAL ITEMS.

A recent cold snap in southern Oregon was severe on stock of all kinds, especially sheep.

Poland-China swine carried off the main prizes at the last great agricultural fair in Denmark

Underground silos of 500 tons' capacity with proper ventilation, are now the rage in Germany.

Plenty of sun and a warm soil are needed for growing mangels, whilst swedes thrive best in a cool, moist soil and climate

Superphosphates are naturally more speedy in their effect than manures consisting of undissolved phosphate A small quantity of phosphoric acid applied as superphosphate will have as great an effect as a considerable quantity applied as bones or ground phosphate.

Mrs B H. Farnham of North Andover, Mass, describes her method of making premium butter as follows The milk is set in tin pans and the cream taken off when the milk has soured When churned the buttermilk is thoroughly worked and the butter salted to taste The next morning the butter is worked again and weighed in 10 pound balls

Canada has become more emphatically a dairy country than the United States. With a population of 5 000 000 they manufacture annually 60,000,000 pounds of cheese, equal to twelve pounds per capita while we, with 50,000 000, make 300,000,000. or six pounds per capita With a population not exceeding one-tenth of ours, their exports of butter are about one half as great as ours

In the use of extra foods for milch cows discrimination should be used in the apportionment of varying quantities to individual animals, according to their special requirements, their milking capacity and their condition as to age Some cows will pay well for a liberal allowance in increased supplies of milk and require more liberal diet to make up for the large drain upon their system while other cows do not require and will not pay for forced keep Heifers two and three years old when milking freely require some extra food to enable them to grow in size, as well as to milk abundantly For want of this many animals which milk freely with their first calves are checked in their growth, and never attain their proper size

HORTICULTURAL ITEMS

Small trees with plenty of roots are far preferable to large trees with poor roots Don't order large trees from a distance

Lime water is a safe and effectual remedy for the little white worms which are often found in the soil of flower-pots Shake the lime in water, and after it has settled pour off the clear water and drench the earth.

G H Lugg, of Ottawa Ill, mulches strawberries with chips and short shavings from a planing mill. He places them on the rows about two inches deep, in the early part of the winter, and in the spring takes off about an inch of it, leaving the remainder to keep the ground moist and clean

To grow verbenas successfully plant them in beds cut in the turf Chop the turf well, and thoroughly mix with it a good share of well decomposed stable manure Never, on any account, plant verbenas in old and worn out garden soil, as they will most assuredly fail Give them a change of soil each season, as they do not thrive well two years in the same bed As a house plant the verbena is not a success It is almost always sickly and infested with red spiders They cannot be kept over Winter in a cellar With verbenas it is either growth or death.

In the Isle of Man fuchsias grow wonderfully large They grow up to the house fronts and form large trees—so large that a tea party may be held around them They are also grown for hedges and kept nicely clipped and, with their bright leaves and scarlet flowers, look cheerful and refreshing James Vick relates that when in Europe he saw in Ventnor, in the Isle of Wight, a fuchsia tree, perhaps twenty feet or more in height with a trunk fully fifteen inches in diameter Specimens exist in South America far larger than the above descriptions

Speaking of roses, John B Moore says he likes an old flower if it is as good as new, but not otherwise. Few of the roses or grated before 1860 are worthy of a garden room He thinks more of a rose if it is fragrant, but would not reject a fine variety —the Baroness Rothschild, for instance—because it is destitute of fragrance any more than Marshall P. Wilder would throw away his collection of camellias because they are no fragrant The Alfred K Williams and Duke of Teck are two of the best new roses, they are of fine color and form and fragrant, and the latter promises to be a good grower The Marquis de Castellane is perhaps the finest of its color. He thought the advice to make a rose bed four feet deep, of half soils and half manure, very unwise If dug eighteen inches deep, it will give better roses The essentials are plenty of manure and plenty of water, they need as much water as strawberries, especially when it is desired to obtain continuous bloom from hybrid perpetuals, for to do this they must be kept in continuous growth

WHEAT RAISING.

R W. Murchie Esq, President of the Penobscot Farmer's Club, at the close of one of his interesting and valuable articles on "Wheat Raising" in the Home Farm, says We now come to what I consider a very important matter, the preparation of the seed, a matter too much, if not wholly neglected by a large number of farmers It is next to impossible to keep seed clean from year to year. There are so many ways in which other seeds may get in Some of us are obliged to store wheat, oats barley, etc, in the same barn; in which case, the different grains can hardly be kept from being more or less mixed. When stored in separate barns the threshing machine carries more or less from barn to barn Then again, oats, barley, etc, are carried to the field in the manure. These means, in connection with weed-seeds already in the soil, render it impossible to keep seed pure for any length of time, hence the importance of sowing as clean seed as possible.

I believe there is no machine yet constructed that will entirely separate barley from wheat. But there are machines which will take out every other foreign seed, and three-fourths, or more, of the barley. Every year, the wheat I intend for seed is taken to a separator, where it passes over and through a combination of perforated zinc sheets and wire sieves; and if carefully managed not an oat, or a pink seed, or any other foreign seed, except an occasional kernel of barley, passes into the seed-box. Furthermore, the small, pinched and broken kernels of wheat are carried to another box, and may be made into flour Thus it is seen my seed is perfect, almost to a kernel. A field of grain grown from such seed will present a very even aspect. If the field is in good condition for the crop, the stalks will be tall and strong, the heads large and full, and so, nearly of a size that a little distinction between them can be seen, this certainly is my experience. No small stalks, ranging from one foot to two feet in height with imperfect heads, are to be seen

Another advantage is, the threshing machine leaves no wheat in large heads, whereas, small, green, half-grown ones are never threshed clean If field wheat be sown, a large amount of pinched and otherwise imperfect kernels get into the soil. These have just vitality enough to throw out a spindling stalk, which, at the best, can show but an imperfect head from which no machine I have ever used will separate the small grain.

and Bladder Expelled—Long Suffering of one of Troy's Best People—A Lucky Man

It is by no means a strange thing that Dr Kennedy should have received the following letter. By reading it you will see in one minute why James Andrews was thankful

TROY, N Y, April 8th, 1880

Dr D Kennedy, Rondout, N Y

DEAR SIR—Until within a recent date I had for several years suffered greatly from gravel, called by the doctors the Brick dust Sediment. For about a year past the sediment has not passed off in the usual quantity but has a consolidated causing about one and one half inches, I voided a stone from the Bladder, of an oval shape, 2 16 of an inch long, and rough on its surface I send you the largest piece that you may see of what it is composed Since then I have felt no pain I now consider myself cured, and cannot express my thankfulness and gratitude for so signal a deliverance from a terrible disease You have my consent to use this letter, should you wish to do so for the benefit of other sufferers
